

5.2 Description of the innovation/commercialization potential of the proposed solutions

The subject matter discussed in the work concerned the assessment of the correctness of the organization of warehouse processes with the use of a checklist and (...). The methods used are of a common nature, thus no innovation of a procedural nature has been achieved. Also, the solutions proposed after the analysis are standard, and thus are not innovative, and thus are devoid of commercialization potential (...)